To come to Capri and stay at the Quisisana is to keep up a tradition that goes back to over 150 years. It is the most iconic hotel in the island and sits in the middle of the hustle and bustle of the village. What it lacks in breathtaking views it offers in charm and hype as everybody in the island walks in front of the Quisi Bar, so it is the perfect spot for a glass of Krug Champagne and to people-watch.

The best feature of Paolino is that most of it sits under beautiful lemon trees. The smell of the ripe lemons feels the air in the balmy summer evenings, enveloping the place in a very special atmosphere. There is an antipasto buffet and the dishes are all delicious albeit big for just one person. Have a sip of the house made limoncello.

When you walk from the Piazzetta towards the Quisisana Hotel, among the luxury shops lining Via Vittorio Emanuele, you will smell something divine. It is the home made thin waffles at Gelateria Buonocore that will be rolled to become the cornetti for their delicious ice cream. As all good things in Capri, there will be a line of people waiting for their time to order. Do not even think of a diet or not waiting in line. (<https://www.thisnation.com/>) It is perhaps one of the best ice creams you will ever have.

Twenty-some rooms are divided into multiple levels, cascading like a beautiful waterfall down the length of a jaw-dropping cliff with unobstructed views of the Marina Piccola - which is truly unique. Their restaurant is pure romance and the rooms are old fashioned and charming. The location is a 10-minute passeggiata away from the Piazzetta along one of the most magnificent roads in Capri.

This one-of-a-kind villa clinging on the side of a cliff is so unique that Le Corbusier had it as an inspiration for many of his design works. Less than a 15-minute walk from the city center, the hotel is decorated in a classic 20th-century style, to match the building's early modernism – bright colors play off monochrome backgrounds and the Mediterranean sun seeps into every corner. (uniforumtz.com) This historical treasure is actually as chic as it is low-key with a genuinely laid-back and friendly atmosphere.

The popular tavern is a bastion of Capri nightlife and definitely the star of the island. It's easy to miss the practically hidden entrance, but once in, Guido Lembo, the owner and charming chansonnier will invite you to get up on the tables and dance the wee hours away to the rhythm of his Neapolitan and international music. You start drinking and singing and once you realize you are will everybody else dancing on top of the tables to the Napoli Football Team's anthem and kissing the Sophia Loren's poster. Worth the hangover.
