NOMA IS BACK!

CATEGORIES: Eating, Fine Dining

Visit Website: <http://noma.dk/>

Get Directions: Refshalevej 96, 1432 København, Denmark

I will have to go back to Copenhagen to try to eat at Noma now that it has reopened. Will it get back the "Best of the World" nomination once again at its newest location?

These beauties from the Faroe Islands – sea snails! ???

+4550332585

POLITIKENS BOGHAL

A wonderful bookshop to browse books and have a coffee
Rådhuspladsen 37
+4530672806

ARTS &amp; CULTURE

ARKEN

New Contemporary Art Museum, a bit far out on the sticks but worth a visit nevertheless
Skovvej 100 in Ishøj
+4543540222

LOUISIANIA

Incredible art center on the way to Helsingør, worth every minute of the train journey along the coast
Gl Strandvej 13 in Humlebæk
+4549190719

GRUNDTVIGS KIRKE

Imposing brick structure translating the Danish Lutheran spirit
På Bjerget 14B

FORGOTTEN GIANTS

Six wooden giants by local artist Thomas Dambo were hidden in the outskirts of the city for a great hunt in the woods. Nice day out with the kids (one of them is not far from Arken).

INSIDER INFO

HOW TO BE DANISH

An enlightening book delving into the Danish Way of Life that will make your visit to the country even more interesting.

BJARKE INGELS

Denmark's "enfant terrible" of the contemporary architecture is changing the perceptions of how the country is perceived and how Danes live. Watch him on Netflix series Abstract.

BORGEN

This is my favorite Danish TV series and a window on how the country works. Quite addictive.

RITA

Newer than Borgen, this series showcases a public school teacher with a kind of "renegade" mind. Another great window into how the Danish live their daily lives (though not all are quite like Rita).
